

Continuing

Preclinical Services to the Highest Standards.

We are hard at work
conducting studies,
providing state of the art science
and protecting our staff.

CBI, as an Essential Business with critical Health Care Operations, is continuing to provide preclinical services to the highest standards. Some of our staff are working from home and our wonderful research staff are practicing enhanced personal care, personal protective equipment, commonly referred to as PPE, facility sanitation, optimized animal care as well as social distancing within the labs.

We are assuring that our animals are all receiving the best and most optimized care and that our studies are being conducted to the highest standard.
